

उन्माद निदान (Unmāda Nidāna)

Introduction

Unmāda or insanity is of six varieties, as follows. Caused by excessive aggravation of either vāyu or pitta or kapha; Caused by the excessive aggravation of all the three doṣas simultaneously; Caused by mental grief; and Caused by poisons. Vātika unmāda, Paittika unmāda, Kapahaja unmāda, Sannipātika unmāda, Viśajanya unmāda, Bhūtōttha unmāda, Devonmāda, Rākṣasonmāda, Gandharvonmāda, Yakṣonmāda, Pretonmāda, Bhujangonmāda, Brahmarā-kṣasonmāda and Piśāconmāda. In the first stage of the disease, when the condition is little moderate in nature, it is called māda. Various types of unmāda (insanity) are caused by the following factors: Intake of mutually contradictory food; Intake of polluted food; Intake of unclean food; Showing disrespect to the gods, preceptors and dvijas (people of upper three castes among Hindus); Affliction of the mind by excessive fear of exhilaration; and Improper postures. By the above-mentioned factors, doṣa get aggravated in a person with a weak mind, and they afflict the heart, which is the location of intellect. As a consequence of this, doṣa pervade through manovaha srotas (channels of the mind) and thereafter, they cause pramoha (impairment of functioning) of the cetas (mind, including intellect). The signs and symptoms of unmāda (insanity) in general, are as follows: impairment of intellect; instability of mind; anxious look; impatience; incoherent speech; and feeling of emptiness in the heart.

C.S.Ci. 10/12-13

Prognosis of Apasmāra are as follows : Apasmāra if manifest in emaciated persons and which persist for longer period of time is said to be incurable. The aggravated Doṣās cause attacks of Apasmāra once in fifteen days, twelve days, or a month. The attack may, however, takes place even after a shorter period.

Whether Apasmāra is Doṣajany or not?

Apasmāra manifest without any apparent cause, because of disappearing without any treatment and because of scriptures describing it differently, some scholars predict that it is not produced by the Doṣās. But Suśruta says that Doṣās become aggravated gradually, because of their instability (Doṣās attain various stage quickly) because of the description in all the scriptures (mentions the disease causation by the Doṣās) and because of having many kinds, intelligent persons definitely say that the disease is born from Doṣās only. Just as the seed in the ground sprouts only during Śarad ṛtu, though it rains in other seasons, similarly this disease develops from the Doṣās which are staying in the body getting aggravated in very short time & manifesting its different symptoms by their nature itself. Hence the disease Apasmāra is dreadful & manifest by abnormal Doṣās. (S.S.Utt. 61/17-21)

उपशय/पथ्य (Upaśaya/Pathya)

The wise physicians have suggested that all the Nasya (nasal) therapy, Añjana (collyrium) therapy, and drugs prescribed in the case of Unmāda can be also used for treatment of Apasmāra as well. (B.R. 20/54)

The helpful measures for the cases of Apasmāra include the following: nasal therapy, Śīrā Vedhana (cutting of the veins), giving donations, beating, use of fear, use of force, smoke therapy, demonstration of amazing scenes, consolation, bathing, ointment of oily substances, and the like. The helpful meals for the patients of epilepsy include the red variety of Śālī rice, Mudga beans, wheat, flesh of tortoise, juice of wild animals and birds, milk, Brāhmī Patra, Vacā, Paṭola Patra, ash gourd, Vāstuka leaves, sweet pomegranate, Śobhāñjana (drum-sticks), coconut, grapes, Āmalakī, Parusaka, sesame oils, urines of ass and horse, rain water and Harītakī. (B.R. 25/55-59)

अनुपशय/अपथ्य (Anupaśaya/Apathya)

The harmful measures and meals for the cases of Apasmāra include the following: grief, brooding, fear, anger, taking unclean eatables, liquor, fishes, unwholesome and incompatible foods, very hot, sour and heavy to digest foods, excessive intercourse and exercising, violating the honour of the deceased elderly, gods and other respectable agencies, all kinds of vegetable leaves, Bimbī leaves, rainy season fruits, holding the urge of sleep and thirst, sitting inside water, mounting on trees and hills, and the like. (B.R. 25/60-62).
