

Asanas

Standing Asana (Any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Trikonasana (Triangle Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Tadasana

Step by step description :

1. While inhaling, spread the feet apart by about a meter & raise both the hands slowly till they reach the horizontal position simultaneously.
2. Slowly bend to the right side until the right hand reaches the right foot. The left arm is straight up, in line with the right hand. Palms face forward. Stretch up the left arm & see along the fingers.
3. Maintain for about one minute ~~min~~ with normal breathing.
4. Return slowly to sthithi
5. Repeat on the left side.

Relaxation : Shithila Tadasana

Benefits and Indications

- Helps in preventing flat foot.
- Strengthens the calf & thigh muscles, openness, groin, calves, hamstrings.
- Corrects curvature of back.
- Strengthens the waist muscles.
- Makes the spine flexible.
- Reduces anxiety, stress

Contraindications

- Abdominal surgery, neck & back injuries
- Slip disc
- Sciatica - active symptoms
- Migraine
- Low or high blood pressure

त्रिकोणासन

Asanas

Standing Asana (Any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Padahasthasana (Standing forward Bend)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Tadasana

Step by step description

1. Stand erect with legs together.
2. Inhale slowly & raise the arms sideways.
3. At this horizontal level, turn the palms upwards.
4. Continue to inhale & move the arms upwards until the biceps touch the ears. Turn the palms forward.
5. Stretch up the body from the waist.
6. Keeping the lower back concave, exhale & bend forward until the trunk is parallel to the ground. Stretch out the shoulders at horizontal plane & inhale.
7. Exhale while going down further until the entire palm rests on the ground & chin touches the knees.
8. Maintain in this final posture for about 2-3 min without bending the knees.
9. Inhale, come up slowly to the vertical position & stretch the arms above the head.
10. Exhale, drop down the arms & turn the palm downwards at the horizontal position.
11. Continue to exhale & return to sthiti.
12. Relax in shithila dandasana.

Benefits and Indications

- Makes the spine flexible.
- Strengthens the thighs, eliminates excess fat around abdomen.
- Helps in preventing constipation & menstrual problems.
- Improves digestion.
- Enhances blood flow to the head region.
- Purifies & strengthens sushumna nadi
- Dissipates laziness/Tamas

Contraindications

Vertigo
Severe degree of hypertension
Cervical spondylosis
Disc prolapse
Lower back problems.

SITTING POSTURES (any five asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Vajrasana (The Adamantine Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Dandasana

Step by step description

1. Fold the right leg & bring the right heel under the right buttock.
2. Sitting on the right heel, fold the left leg & bring the left heel under the left buttock.
3. Sit erect comfortably with the buttocks resting on both the heels & palms resting on the thighs.
4. In the final posture the soles of the feet face upwards, heels are kept together & the entire weight of the body is felt on the back of the feet. Relaxation : shithila Dandasana.

Benefits/Indication:

- Keeps the spine erect & prevents drowsiness.
- Stimulates vajra nadi at the ankles which increases the awareness.
- Helpful for varicose veins.
- Prevents deep vein thrombosis.
- Makes ankles flexible & prevents flat foot.
- Useful for heel pain.
- Can be performed after heavy food. • Meditative posture.

Contraindications

- Stiff ankle
- Rheumatic problems.

SITTING POSTURES (any five asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Ardhamatsyendrasana (spinal twist pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Dandasana

Step by step description: 1. Bend the right leg at the knee by drawing it along the ground.

2. Place the sole of the right foot against the inner side of the left thigh.

3. Keep the right heel about 4 to 5 inches away from the perineum.

4. Bend the left knee & place the left foot on the outer side of the right thigh near the right knee.

5. Do not sit on the heels.

6. Inhale, raise the right arm up vertically & stretch up the shoulder.

7. Exhale, twist the waist to the left & bring the right arm over on to the outer side of the left knee.

The left knee acts as a support for getting maximum twist of the spine. Catch the left big toe with the right hand. The right triceps rests on the outer side of the left knee.

8. Now take the left hand behind on the back & try to touch the right thigh.

9. Look back over the left shoulder keeping the trunk erect.

10. Maintain for about a minute with normal breathing.

11. Come back to sthiti.

12. Relax for a while in sthiti dandasana.

Benefits/ Indication:

- Laternal twist gives flexibility to the spine.
- Tones up the spinal nerves.
- Helps to cure constipation, dyspepsia.
- Stimulates pancreas & useful for diabetes.
- Improves lung capacity.
- Awakens kundalini

Contraindication:

- One who recently undergone abdominal surgery
- Pregnancy.
- Spinal issues, back & neck pain
- Hernia & peptic ulcers
- People with heart & brain surgeries.

STANDING POSTURES (any two) among the three postures
Name of the disease: Arthromyopathosis (spinal twist pose)

- Spinal issues, back & neck pain
- Hernia & peptic ulcers
- People with heart & brain surgeries

SITTING POSTURES (any five asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Ustrasana (Camel Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Dandasana

Step by step description 1. Sit in vajrasana.

2. Stand on the knees.

3. Place the palms on the waist with finger pointing forwards.

4. Inhale & bend the trunk backwards & place the palms on the heels.

5. Maintain for about a minute with normal breathing.

6. Exhale while coming back to sthiti

7. Relax in shithila Dandasana.

Benefits and Indications :

- Makes spine flexible, strengthens back & shoulders.
- Increases circulation to the head region.
- Helps improve digestion as it massages the internal organs.
- It opens up the chest & frontal portions of the torso.
- Relieves menstrual discomfort.

Contraindications

- Chest, abdominal surgery, neck injury.
- Hernia problems
- Severe hypertension/ Low blood pressure
- Low back pain
- Insomnia, migraine

SITTING POSTURES (any five asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Paschimottasana (Sitting Forward Bending Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Dandasana

Step by step description: 1. Inhale, raise both the arms sideways at shoulder level parallel to the ground.

2. Turn the palms facing upwards.

3. Continue to inhale & raise the arms further up vertically biceps touching the ears & stretch the trunk from to coccyx region. Now turn the palms forward.

4. Exhale, bend the trunk forward from the lowerback stretch the arms hands parallel to the ground.

5. Exhale completely, from hooks of index fingers & catch hold of the big toes. Bend the back further forward from the lumbar region so that the trunk is stretched along the thighs & face rests on the knees to bend.

6. Maintain the position for about a minute with normal breathing.

7. Return to sthiti reversing the steps & the breathing.

Benefits and Indications

8. Relax to shithila Dandasana.

- Gives flexibility to the backbone.

- Stimulates the spinal nerves & back muscle.

- Improves digestion & metabolism.

- Energise the whole body.

- Removes constipation.

- Strengthens various organs of the body like heart, kidneys, abdominal organs.

Contraindications

- People with heart attack.

- Back problems like spondylosis

SITTING POSTURES (any five asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Shashankasana (Rabbit Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Dandasana

- Step by step description:
1. Fold the right leg at the knees & then the left leg & sit on the heels Vajrasana resting the palms on thighs.
 2. Take the hands behind the back, make the fist of the right palm & hold the right wrist with left palm.
 3. Relax the shoulders.
 4. Inhale, lean backwards a little from the waist opening up the chest.
 5. Exhale slowly bend forwards from the waist bringing the forehead on to the ground in front of the knees. Collapse the shoulders.
 6. Maintain this position for about one minute with normal breathing.
 7. Inhale, slowly come up to the vertical position.
 8. Release your hands & come back to  sthiti.
 9. Relax in shitala dandasana.

Benefits and Indications:

- Enhances blood flow to the head which helps to release stress burst hormone.
- Stimulates the brain & relieves stress & anxiety.
- Gives flexibility to the spines, ankles & knees.
- Advised for breathing ailments.
- Increases body awareness with breathing.
- Calms the mind & relieves tension around the neck.

Contraindications:

Gastritis, hernia
Peptic ulcer
Knee, Ankle, Hip injuries
Pregnant woman
Vertigo, dizziness
High blood pressure
Spinal issues.

LYING SUPINE POSTURES (any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Sarvangasana (The shoulder stand Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Supine posture

Step by step description :

1. Inhale, raise the legs together slowly & gracefully without bending the knees, till it forms about 45° to the ground.
2. Continue to inhale & raise the legs further to 90° position. Bring the arms down & place them next to the buttocks.
3. Exhale, raise the buttocks & the trunk, taking support of the arms & elbows, without lifting the head. Rest the elbows on the ground firmly & support the back with both palms.
4. While retaining the legs parallel to the ground, straighten the trunk by pushing it with hands until the chin is well set in the suprasternal hollow.
5. Inhale & raise the legs vertically keeping the body erect & come to the final shoulder stand position.
6. Maintain effortlessly with normal breathing for about 2-3 min. Carefully avoid all jerks.
7. Slowly come back to sthithi & relax in shavasana.

Benefits and Indications

- Stimulates & keep the thyroid healthy
- Influences the pelvic organs.
- Useful in varicose veins, piles, hernia
- Advised for menstrual disorders.
- Cures constipation, indigestion, diabetes, visceroptosis.
- Awakens kundalini & stimulates digestive fire.
- Preserves youth by keeping spine elastic, helps in achieving perfect health.

Contraindications

- Cervical spondylosis
- Low back pain
- Hypertension
- Glaucoma, detached retina
- Chronic thyroid disorders
- Shoulder injuries.

LYING SUPINE POSTURES (any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Matsyasana (Fish Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Supine posture

Step by step description

1. Take the right leg & place it on left thigh.
2. Place the left leg on the right thigh as in Padmasana.
3. Place the palms on either side of the head with fingers pointing towards the shoulders.
4. Inhale, take the weight on the palms & lift the head & back off the ground.
5. Bring the centre of the crown of the head to the ground by bending the dorsal & cervical spine backwards.
6. Exhale & remove the hands after the weight is well balanced on the head & catch hold of the big toe hooking the index fingers around them.
7. Press the elbows on the ground to bear the weight of the upper half of the body.
8. Maintain this position for one minute with normal breathing.
9. As you exhale come back slowly step by step to supine sthiti.
10. Relax in shavasana.

Indication and Benefits

- Good for diabetes.
- Advised for asthmatics
- Advised for respiratory problems
- Promotes good digestion, produce energy
- Stimulates brain & thyroid
- Helpful in haemorrhoids.

Contraindication:

- One who recently undergone thoracic/abdominal surgery.
- One with cervical spondylosis.

NAME OF THE ASANA: Matsyasana (Fish Pose)

FORM: Supine posture

STEP BY STEP DESCRIPTION

1. Take the right leg & place it on left thigh.
2. Place the left leg on the right thigh as in Padmasana.
3. Place the palms on either side of the head with fingers

- Indicated for respiratory problems.
- Promotes good digestion, produces energy.
- Stimulates brain & thyroid.
- Helpful in rheumatoid.

Contraindication:

- One who recently undergone thoracic/abdominal surgery.
- One with cervical spondylosis.

LYING PRONE POSTURES (any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Dhanurasana

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Prone posture

Step by step description

1. Bend the knees & hold the ankles by the palms.
2. Inhale, raise the head & chest upwards. Pull the legs outwards & backwards so that spine is arched back like a bow.
3. Rest on the abdomen.
4. Do not bend the elbows, looks up.
5. Keep the toes together, maintain for about half a minute with normal breathing.
6. Slowly come back to sthithi while exhaling.
7. Relax in makarasana.

Benefits and Indications

- Useful for diabetic patients
- Removes gastro-intestinal disorders, cures indigestion.
- Stimulates & helps in slimming whole body.
- Gives good stimulation & flexibility to the back.
- Alleviates congestion of blood in the abdominal viscera, tones them.
- Prevents premature ageing of bones, relieves menstrual disorders.

Contraindications

- General debility.
- Person suffering with high/low blood pressure
- Hernia, neck injury, pain in the lower back
- Headache, migraine
- Recent abdominal surgery
- Pregnancy.

• Pregnancy
• Recent abdominal surgery
• Hypertension, angina

LYING PRONE POSTURES (any two asanas among the theory syllabus)

Name of the Asana: Bhujangasana (Cobra Pose)

Procedure: (Paste own picture)

Sthiti: Prone Posture

Step by step description

1. Bend the arms at the elbow & place the palms beside the lower chest at the level of the last rib exerting least pressure on the palms.
2. Keep the elbows close to each other & let them not spread out
3. Inhale & come up.
4. Arch the dorsal spine & neck backwards as far as possible
5. Keep the body below the navel in touch with the ground.
6. Maintain the final position with normal breathing for one minute with least pressure on the palms.
7. While exhaling come back to the sthithi.
8. Relax in makarasana.

Benefits and Indications

- Brings flexibility to the dorsal spine.
- Strengthens the spinal muscles.
- Reduces the abdominal fat, reduce fat around waistline.
- Useful in management of bronchial problems.
- Useful in back problems.
- Strengthens the wrists
- Strengthens various glands & takes care of vitality, neck tension & urinary problems.

Contraindications

Abdominal surgery
Cervical spondylosis

Handed posture (Bhujangasana) (Cobra Pose)
Bhujangasana (Cobra Pose)
Bhujangasana (Cobra Pose)

Step by step description
1. Bend the arms at the elbow & place the palms beside the lower chest at the level of the last rib extending least pressure

